

A Family For Every Child
Matching Assistance

*"We should not be asking who this child belongs to,
but who belongs to this child."*

Non-Public Listings

Our additional database of children may be accessed from your Family Home Page. This additional database lists all of the children on our site- children that cannot be listed on our public site, and children that are listed on our public site. To submit your home study for any of the children listed on our site, hover over the Submission Area tile, and then click Search for children on our site. Select either a single child or a sibling group. Click Search to find children by entering in a child's name, bulletin number, or your child preferences. Click View All to see all single children or sibling groups listed on our site.

To read a child's biography, click on their name. Their biography will open in a new tab. When reading a child's biography, you will get some very basic information about the child. Some biographies will be more detailed than others. This is all the information that we have to provide to families prior to submission. Additional information about a child's needs and family history will be provided to a family after submission, if the caseworker feels the family is a good match.

To submit for a child, click the button that reads Submit your home study for this child. Answer the following questions:

- Why are you a good match for this child/children?
- Is there anything in your study that you would like to further explain?
- Have you done additional training and/or supports since the study was written?

Take your time answering these questions, as it is your last opportunity to really advocate for your family. It gives you the chance to tell the caseworker in your own words why you feel you would be a good family for this child/sibling group; explain anything in your study that may be cause for concern; and tell the caseworker about any additional trainings you have completed that are not in your home study. After you have answered the questions, click the "Submit your home study" button.

Only one submission is allowed per child or sibling group.
